NEW-YORK WEEKLY MUSEUM.

". WITH SWEETEST FLOWERS ENRICH'D, PRON VARIOUS CARDENS CULL'D WITH CARE."

26 -vol. xx.

adies

ical 0

Deri

autif

ome

Pouc s all

ples

time:

andl

Crant,

ad 8s

e fort

aral

the si

soft on c

X

dulter

the fi

uits

o ins

NEW-YORK, SATURDAY, AUGUST 6, 1808.

No. 1016.

THE INTRIGUE;

he Lovers who were persuaded to be in Love.

[CONTINUED.]

SHE questioned him eagerly, and he an-tered with his usual simple frankness. He gred her that he had not prosounced her ame, and that no person could suspect that e had the least share in the steps he had tam; at the same time renewing his promise finviolable secrecy. Adrience maintained in Fonrose dissembled; that his passion for iss de Forlis was violent in the extreme; mence, that she persuaded Verdac to reand to his former determination, which, in et was most agreeable to him, since he really feared the opposition and anger of his

" But what would you have me do?" said

" Perform an action as noble as that of Fone," replied Adrieune; " let this letter, which he wrote for you in despair, ensure his g, gla appiness."
"In what manner?" asked the Viscount.

" Give it to me, and I will carry it to my nat, on the part of Fonrose, as if he had nitten it for himself. In the mean time orer your horse to be saddled, and set off withot delay to meet your father, who expects

Verdac greatly approved this plan, and, alling his valet, ordered him, in presence of Adrienne, to saddle his horse immediately, nd lead him to the end of the avenue, for he vas determined to set out without speaking to my person.

Elad ses, Pe d Ha des &c

Adrienne, delighted with his ready complince, then left him, taking with her the letter written by Foorose, and on the back of which te had also written the words -" For Madame te Forlis." With this she flew to her aunt, ond, giving her the letter, told her she had her name on it, thought it her duty to bring it 10 her. Adrienne then added that a messen-gerhad that moment arrived from her father, who requested her to return to him at Paris as 1000 as possible. She therefore took her leave, Midame de Forlis read with impatience the letter of Ponrose, and the error in which it confirmed her, gave her the greatest joy; for Fourose was the son-in-law she wished. She sent for Louisa, related to her the generous contention of the two friends, and concluded by reading to her the letter which had just been put into her hands. Louisa heard all she had to say with the greatest calmness; she knew not what she ought to think, or which most to admire, Fonrose or Verdac. Her momost to admire, Fonrose or Verdac. Her mo-ther, however, put an end to her indecision, by telling her that these two virtuous and aradded she, the Viscount is not certain of obtaining the consent of his father, and in this uncertainty we ought no longer to rely on him. Fourose adores you - he is subject to no controul : can you be insensible to an attachment so tender and delicate?

Louisa assured her she was not ungrateful ; and that, since she could not marry M. de Verdac, she would consent, without the least repugnance, to a union with M. de Fonrose.

At these words, Madame de Forlis, having obtained her utmost wish, sent immediately for Fonrose, who instantly came :-

" My dear Fonrose," said she, shewing him Louisa, "she is yours, and she consents."-Foncose was petrified.—"Perhaps," resumed Madame de Forlis, "after having written the affecting letter now in my possession, you have again repented, and again formed the noble resolution of sacrificing your happiness to friendship. But Heaven has not permitted it. You have dropped this letter, and it has been brought to me."

She then produced the letter which he had written for Verdac to copy, and gave it to Forrose, scarcely able to dissemble the anger and indignation which arose in his breast, immediately perceived the effect of the interview between Adrienne and Vordac. After a moment of silence and reflection, he a lvanced to Madame de Forlis, and clasping ber hands between his-

" My dear Madam," said he, " could you read my heart, you would see how much I am penetrated by your goodness, But so violent are my emotions, and I am so little able to command them, that it is impossible for me to express what I feel. Permit me to retire for a moment, to recollect myself, and reflect on my extraordinary situation."

He instantly left the room, without waiting for an answer; and having written a few lines with a pencil to Juliette, to inform her of this most singular incident, hurried to the stables, and, mounting Verdac's horse, set off full gul-lop for Paris. He had no doubt that Adrienne had advised and engaged the Viscount to leave Chevilly, and he knew that she herself was already gone. He therefore gained to his interest the valet of Verdac, and the grooms and servants about the stables, who contrived to interpose invincible obstacles to the departure of Verdac. He was at first told that his horse had lost his shoe. He then ordered post horses; and was made to wait three quarters of an hour, when he was told that none could be procured. He then gave orders for his horse to be shed, but no farrier was to be found. The Viscount, while he was detain ed in this manner, walked with great calmness up and down the avenue, gever once suspecting that Fonrose was already gone, and on

In the mean time, Juliette had not been inactive on her part, but had produced a great change. Louisa, after the conversation with her mother, had gone up into her chamber, and, with a seriousness suitable to the occasion, told Juffette, that, in obedience to her mother's recommendation, she had consented and promised to marry M. de Fonrose.

At these words, Juliette, who had already been informed of what had passed, by the note which Fournse had seat her, threw herself on her sisters neck, with all the appearance of aflectionate-concern -

Ah! my dear sister!" exclaimed she,

what have you done ?"

" It gives me pain, it is true," said Louisa, " you know that I love M. de Verdac-but I must think of him no more."

"My dear sister," cried Juliette, "how pale and ill you look !"

"Yes-it will cost me some struggles," replied Louisa.

"If you could shed tears, that might per-

"No-I cannot shed tears; but I feel a very great oppression at my stomach."
"Believe me, that is very dangerous —

Bless me, sister, how you tremble I let me un-

"Oh no! we are going to dinner directly." "To dinner! you would not surely think of it, in the condition in which you are.

" I ate but very little breakfast, and I feel a kind of throbbing at my stomach."

" That will be much worse if you eat; I am sure you have a fever. Let me feel your Heavens ! it is absolutely convulnelse. sive !"

" Really !"

You are in a high fever, I am sure. What a misfortune it is to have too much renability ! Be persuaded you must go to bed."

Juliette now began to undress her sister as fast as possible. Louisa made some resistance; but Juliette talking to her of Verdae, and insisting on the disappointment and des-pair she must feel, prevailed on her to follow her advice; and Louisa, half voluntarily and half by force, went to bed. It was agreed that Juliette should tell Madame de Fortis that Louisa had a violent head-ache, and that she requested permission to dine in her chamber. Johiette, recommending to her sister to take some balm ten which she had made for ber, left her, promising to return to her immediately after dinner.

She then went in quest of Verdac, who she found in the avenue, where he had been waiting more than an hour and a half; she ran to him apparently out of breath, and in much agitation-

" Heavens!" exciained she, "why are you here, while Louisa is in such a state? "What do you mean?" said Verdac, "what is the matter?"

"Her nerves, poor young lady! have suf-fered a terrible shock. Can you seriously behere that she could willingly consent to marry Fonrose, with the affection she has for you? She is in bed with a violent fever, and can you be barbarous enough to set off for Paris, and leave her in such a state?"

nothing of it. However," added he, " I will not leave Chevilly to-day;" and offering Juhette his arm, they returned into the house to dinner.

Madame de Forlis, and come intimate acquaintances who were at Chevilly were sitting down to table. Juliette whispered her mother that Louisa was somewhat indisposed, and requested that she would dispense with her leaving her chamber. Madame de Forlis readily consented, imagining that Louisa did not again wish to see the Viscount; but she was both surprised and uneasy at learning that Fourose had set off for Paris. After dinner the company returned to the saloon; and a moment after a carriage was heard driving up to the door. Verdac went to the window, to the door. and immediately uttered an exclamation of astonishment, for he saw his father and Fonrose alight from the carriage.

Madame de Forlis, not less astonished than the Viscount, went into her parlour, to receive this unexpected visit. Forrose, now triumphant, presented the Baron de Verdac to Madame de Forlis, telling her that he came to solicit for his sou the hand of Miss Louisa de Forlis. "I should have been too happy to obtain it," added he, " but, Madam, besides my friendship for Verdac, an invincible obstacle opposed my happiness. I have but too distinctly seen; notwithstanding the extreme reserve of Miss de Forlis, that she secrat y entertains a lively affection for the Viscount. It was, consequently, on every account my duty to sacrifice my sentiments to his-to those of my friend. I went therefore to the Baron de Verdac, represented to him the whole truth, and, to render him favourable to the wishes of his son, it was sufficient, Madam to mention your name."

The Baron now spoke, confirming all that Fonrose had said; and Madame de Forlis, lost in admiration of these extraordinary incidents gave her consent.

Louisa was taking her eighth cup of balm toa when this intelligence was aunounced to her. She appeared delighted; and Juliette, as may be supposed, sincerely participated in her joy. At supper al! was very cheerful, notwithstanding the pity inspired by the generous Fonrose, whose fortitude and greatness of mind, none could sufficiently praise.

Some days after, Madame de Forlis asked Forrose if he was really cured of his passion?
"Yes, Madam," replied he, "Louis is now, in my eyes, only like a most amiable sister." "She may, perhaps, become such in reality." snswered Madame de Forlis.

"Ah, Madam!" exclaimed Forrose, "the happiness of being related to you will ever be to me the most powerful of all consolutions."

Juliette was now coasulted on the subject by her mother, and her answer may be easily imagined. It was determined that the two marriages should be celebrated in a forteight. This conclusion was a severe blow to the intriguing Adrienne, but it was not her only punishment; the Baron de Verdac proceeded in his law suit against her father and gained his cause. Madame de Forlis married her two daughters on the same day-the insipid and discreet Louisa, became the most irreproachable and truly happy wife ;-the gay and scute Juliette, too much addicted to coquetry, and too apt to indulge her taste for intrigue, was frequently imprudent, and pulty of numerous acts of levity and extravagance; while Fonrose aften gave her much cause for uneasiness, and even ill treated her in his of j alousy ; till at length this accomplished and ardently enamoured pair envied the tot of the lovers who had only been per suaded that they were in love, and whom they had united by their intrigues.

Hail the blest scenes of promis'd peace arise, Heat the siek mind, and close the steepless eyes.

STANZAS ON MENTAL PEACE.

Enough to sorrow's rending sigh is paid,
Go pale despair, I quit thy morbid reign—
Come to my heart, thou hope inspiring maid,
And bring the guiltless pleasures in thy traio.

Sweet peace of mind! thou long excluded guest, I feel thy power, and hail thy courted away; Thy saving hand shall heal this wounded breast And wipe the unavailing tear away.

No more the phantom of each waking dream, Wastes my pale cheek and rolls my vacant eye, Nor yet obscures the morn's benignant beam, And bids the momentary slumber fly.

No more the efforts of the indignant mind, With firm resolves endures the treacherous dart, Returns with sorrowing look the glance unkind, And veils with patient smiles the breaking heart.

Nor shall hard Memory with destroying arm, To the torn breast the cruel shaft restore, That pierc'd the pulses of each youthful charm, And sunk the treasures of the golden hour.

Nor yet shall desperate sorrow's dire extreme,
From my full soul the tasteless viands hear;
And with the tem, erate beverage of the stream,
Blend the deep anguish of an hopeless tear.

There is something extremely pathetic in the following Sonnet to that spasting disease which demands so many victims, annually, in our ost gently, on thy victim's head, Gently, most gently, on thy victim's head.

Consumption, lay thine hand! Let me decay
Like the expiring lamp, unseen, away,
And softly go to slumber with the dead,
And if 'tis true what holy men have said,
That strains angelic o't foretel the day
Of death, to those good men who fall thy prey,
O let the grial music found my bed,

O let the griat mane round my nen,
Dissolving slow in dying symphony.
Whisper the solemn warning to mine ear,
That I may bid my weeping friends good bye,
Ere I depart upon my journey drear;
And smiling faintly on the painful past, Compose my decent head and breathe my last.

SONNET.

When gentle Eve. fair child of ardent Day,
Throws her soft mustle o'er the verdant ground,
How sweet! adown the sloping vale to stray,
While Cynthia sheds her sitver radiance round.

How sweet to hear the plaintive bird of woe Pour her sad murmurs to the list'ning grove, As through the sir the warbled numbers flow, Fraught with the melody of mourning love.

How sweet ! to mark the fading landscape near. The lowly cettage and the stately tower; How sweet the distant village peal to hear, Borne on the gale at this soft silent hour.

These are thy charms, fair Evening | may they A balm for grief, an antidote to Love.

-+ 2222224-

THE ROSE AND THORN.

Of the rose, fair and young, poets often have sung, And the thorn near its bosom embossed; But notic'd have none that the rose is but one, And the thorns are a merciless host.
Having liv'd out its day, the mild rose dies away,

Averse and unequal in strife , But the thorns are still there, the rude emblems of To wound through the winter of life, and the second of the second o

From the Balance.

THE LIMNER.

Gun Boats, Aboi !

Within a few years, Messrs. Editors, varia tinguished by some popular name. We have i Truxton hats, Suwarrow bosts, Nelson hats, in ferson boots and shoes, Trafalgar ribbons, Nelson ferson boots and shoes, Trafalgar ribbons, Nelse wave and Nelson's ball calicoes, and more officers of boots, hats, shoes, ribbons, &c than Ic well remember. About the time that Mr. Fultraised the wonder of all New York by destroying poor inoffensive old brig that had been given on this buffetings, a quack very gravely advertishis new invented Torpedo Pills, which, he sawer so constructed, that on a given time after bing deposited in the stomach, they would exploit and decompose any thing within their reach.

'Can you tell me, Miss Pertly, why this can mous new fangled bonnet is called a Gun Boat?'
It is thus named, replied she, in honor of M.

It is thus named, replied she, in honor of Me

'Indeed! can Mr Jufferson be honoured by an ing a straw bonnet the name of his principal nation to me.

old and young will wear this same straw bonnet, i must render Mr Jefferson very popular.

But in what respect does this bonnet resembles

Gun Boat !"

In more than one, Sir.

'I confess it, and if you will permit me, I will mention some of them.' Agreed, sir-in the first place, madame, they cost more that they are worth, and thus do they resemble a gua-

They resemble a gan-boat from their fitness is navigate none but shoal waters.

Thank ye sir proceed,

They are colculated to make a mere then of fence' — Miss Pertly coloured — while in fact defente' they invite aggression.

I deny it, sir.

'I beg your pardon, madam—but let me see a young lady with a gun boat bonnet, a proclamation tucker, and a spider net embargo, while all her prominent points (I mean her elbows, &c) are naked and defenceless—and I'll bet you my ears a gainst a pair of pie me gloves, that she can be conquered.'

-- ARRANA-

A GREAT BOOK A GREAT EVIL.

A curious reason against publishing a voluminous book, if it is on a subject likely to expose its author book, if it is on a subject their to expose the top pains and penalties.

'Whilst I was at Moscow,' says a pleasant traveller, 'a quarto volume was published, in favour of the liberties of the people, a singular subject, when we consider where the book was printed; in the work the inequitious penality of public functionaries and the conduct of the sovereign, were scrutinized with great freedom.

Such a book in such a country, naturally attracted general notice, and the offender was soon taken into custody. After being tried in a summary way, his production was determined to be a fibel, and the writer condemned to see his con-production was determined to be a fibel, and the writer-condemned to ear hir own words.

The singularity of such a sentence, induced me to see it put into execution; a scaffold was erected in one of the most public streets of the city, the imperial provost, the magistrates the physician and surgeon of the Czar attended; the book was separated from its binding, the margin cut off, and every leaf rolled up into the form of a lottery ticket, when taken out of the wheel at Guildhall.

The author was then served with them leaf by

The author was then served with them, leaf by leaf, by the provost, who put them into his mouth to the no small diversion of the spectators; and he was compelled to swallow this unpalatable food on pain of the known in Danie of the known in Danie. pain of the knout, in Russia, a punishment more dreaded than death.

'As soon as the medical gentlemen were of opin-ion that he had recived into his stomach as much as at one time was consistent with safety, the trans-gressor was sent back to prison, and the business resumed the two following days; after three very hu owed. m, Wi o his cu

The NEW

the city Aof will 15 girl 1, viz C 1, 60 pay 1, gout it rels 1, 0

orms. The cas ose deal of Ne he cas nt foun

roog i ie nec was cur is third ipted h peless I A Sar ich ar

a-Lo

ter, at ht, fi a fyri deck. 60 i ely al ey, h s the or we she n tho hority cargo n the mea

town bent that s

be n

of th r fle appe

Ba

he, but unpleasant meals, I am convinced, by he proof, that every leaf of the book was actually lowed.

great book is a great evil, said an arcient write, sion, which the unfortunate writer in question to his cost.

The Weekly Museum.

han Ic NEW-YORK, AUGUST 6, 1808.

roying ven on e, lui

ore that

L.

uminou

t travel

erected city, the cian and ook was off, and y ticket,

ent more of opinmuch as business

explose the city inspector reports the death of 51 perhe sail soft whom 15 were men, 10 women, 11 boys after by 15 girls) during the week ending on Saturday explose the consumption of the least of the casualty 1, the line casualty 1, the consumption of the convulsions 3, decay 3, his casualty 1, drowned 3, typhus fever 1, infantile flux gout in the stomach 1, hives 2, infanticide 1, or of M ammation of the lungs 1, inflammation of the ach 1, old age 1, palsy 2, pleurisy 1, small pox 1, d by in born 3, teething 1, whooping cough 3, and 1 hating sorms.

sorms.

The case of casualty was Mr William Tabele, ose death was occusioned by a fall from a chair. The drowned were. Mr William Gilpin, an Endman, agedi38 years; Mr Henry Milier, a natefinew York, and a man unknown.

The case of infanticide was that of a new-born ant found in a privy at No. 53 Bedlow street. embles spoor infatuated fellow was discovered hanging e neck in Harman street on the 28th ulimo was cut down just in time to save his life. This is third attempt. What untoward accident has pited him thus to flump the life to come,' tether a scolding wife, a remorseless creditor, or tether a scold

shen of A Narrow Escape.—The ship Union, Jacobs, ich arrived at this port a few days since an Loadon, and anchored in the North and of Liberty street took fire ver, at the foot of L berty street took fire ween 10 and 11 o'clock on Wednesday ht, from the bursting of some bottles of all her all her are naears abe conLET. a forces, that were stowed in the long boat deck. The man who was on duty as Watch so intoxicated at the time, as to be but ely able to give the alarm to the ships crew. ey, however, were fortunately mustered ficiently early to extinguish the fire and by a means save the city from rain, and person the lives of thousands of its juhabitants or we understand from good authority, take has upwards of 700 kegs of Gun rder in her-hold. We now publicly call these where details to interprete their avour of ct, when in the ionaries a those whose dety it is to interpose their lority, to instantly cause this vessel, with cargo to be removed to such a distance the city, as that our lives and property be no longer in jeopardy. E. Pon, ttracted kening During the thunder storm which passed way, his town on the 30th June, five young men and the were at labor in the meadows, for secu-from the rain, placed themselves in a re-bent posture under their waggon, and that situation were strock with lightning, of them received a severe shock, and t flesh scorched in different parts of the y; two of them from ten to fifteen min-appeared to have been killed; but after appeared to have been killed; but after ving them from under the waggon, and rely shaking them, the first symptom of very was puking. Upon examining their et, one of them was burnt on both thighs, below the hip joint, as large as a man's d; the other just below the right shoublade, of equal's ze, in appearance like burns from a red hat from. When the , leaf by s mouth, and he food on burns from a red hat from When he flash separated it left a cavity from one to half an inch in depth. In other note of their bodies and limbs, there was the appearance of a discharge of shot, that sprinthe flush sufficiently deep to have buried them.

They are now in a fair way of recovery; no injury was done to the waggon, neither could it be discovered where the lightning entered the earth. Humpshire Gaz.

HORRID MURDER.

Extract of a letter from the Purish of St. Elizabeth.

"I witnessed on Monday last the most horrid and most cruel sight that probably ever was seen before. Mr. James Jennings, who was settling a coffee plantation about three miles from this, had his throat cut; his housekeeper, a Sambo woman, had her head severed from her body : their eldest daughter, about eight years old, her throat cut; the next boy about six, his throat cut and scalped; the third, a sucking child, strangled; and a black child about six, his throat cut and scalped; there is also one of Mr. Jennings's brown children missing, about three years old, which, there is not the least doubt, has shared the same fate, as it was seen in company with the others the day before by a genteman who lives in the neighbourhood; and the murderers to complete their barbarity, cut the throat of a milch goat, which they left weltering in its blood along with the other dead bodies. These cruel and barbarous murders were committed on Sunday, the day before I saw them, and supposed to be done by sex-Coromantee negro mea, purchased by Mr. Jennings about six months ago. We understand that one of the above negroes was discovered in the woods by a party of ne-groes who were sent in powers of them. They found him askep, and shot him on the spot; his head was afterwards cut off and snock on a pole. He was wrapped in the clothes of the unfortunate woman they had so cruelly murdered, and her neckiace was tied about his ancle." Jamaica paper. Jamaica paper.

Extract of a letter from a respectable mercantile house in London to their correspondent in Fhiladelphia, dated May 31.

" A captain Hopkins, of Boston, just arrived from Cadiz, has this moment reported to me, that he saw at that port a letter from Mr. Lear to Mr. Montgomery at Alicant, dated the 8th inst. and by him transmitted to Mr. Zznardi, announcing that the Algerines were fitting out all their cruizers, and doubtless their object and intention was to commence host lities against the Americans.

The French since they occupied Lisbon , have proceeded to make great improvements in the city. The governur has ordered the cleansing and new paving of most of the streets. General Junov has ordered that the images should be melted dawn. A deputation of Friars waited on him to procure a respite for a very large add favorite Saint. His may throw it into the lague; if brass, you may break it; but if it is silver or gold, you must bring it to me, and I will melt it.

THE PARTNERSHIP OF SMITH & CONK LING, dissolved on the 1st May. All accounts will be settled by either of the subscribers.

Z SMITH, T. W. CUNKLING. Brooklyn, June 6

COURT OF HYMEN.

Possess'd of the object they love, Their hearts will be wholly at ease; Whilst reason and Heaven approve, Their mutual endeavors to please.

MARRIED.

MARRIED,
On Saturday evening last, by the Rev Dr Abeel.
Mr Henry Whitney to Miss Mary Suydam, daughter of H Suydam, Esq. of Hallett's Cove, Long Island
On Monday evening, by the Rev Dr Rodgers, the Rev Alexander Gunn, to Miss Sarah Nickel.
On Tuesday, by the Rev Dr Miller, Mr Dominick Crassous of Martinique, to Miss Eliza Wilkie, daughter of Mr Edward Wilkie of this city.
On Tuesday morning, in St Johns Church, by the

On Tuesday morning, in St Johns Church, by the Rev Bishop Moore, Mr Henry Major of the house of Major, Gillespie and Titus, to Miss Jane Moore, second daughter of Dr William Moore, all of this city.

On Thursday evening 28th ult. by the Rev. Mr Cooper, Mr John Whitlock, to Miss Phoebe Osburn of this city.
On Wednesday evening, the 20th ult. at Mastick, Long Island, by the Rev Mr David S Bogert, Mr Richard Smith, Junr Esq of Smith Town, to Miss Eliza W Nicoll, step daughter of the Hon John Smith, member to the Senate of the United States.

MORTALITY.

Our friends and kindred droop and die, And helpers are withdrawn; While Sorrow, with a streaming eye, Weeps o'er her consorts gone.

On Monday last, much regretted in the 42d year of her age, Mrs. Mary B Lloyd, the amiable consort of Mr Paul B Lloyd of this city.

On Tuesday last, Mrs. Frances Tetard, aged unp-

On the 9th inst. after a short illness, Dr Georges

At Hartleberg Castle, England the Right Lev Bishop Hurd, Bishop of Worcester, at the ad-vanced age of 88 years.

At Norwalk, Connecticut, on Saturday the 24th alk much regretted by his friends and acquaintance, Mr. Edward Fitch, of this city, aged 39 years.

On Saturday morning, Capt Nathaniel Thempson, Harbor Master, aged 34 years.

TAMBOURED and SEWED LENO and MULL-MULL LONG SHAWLS, for sale by MRS. TODU No. 92 Liberty street July 2 - 1011

EMBROIDERING CHINELLES, LEGANTLY ASSOCITED SHADES, for sale at No. 104 Maiden lane.

DURABLE INK.

FOR WEITING ON LINEN WITH A PEN, Which nothing will discharge without destroying the Linen, for sale at this office.

CISTERNS.

Madeand put in the ground complete warrantted No 15 Catharine street, near the Watch house

DR. ROBERTS, No. 5 Oliver street. New-York will engage to cure all disorders that are curable, with-out forcing the sick to take one grain of Mercury, if they follow his rules; and if a doubt arise in his becast that he is not able to parform a cure without the halp that he is not able to perform a cure without the halp of Mercury, he will be his patient know beforehand, that hey may act as they think proper. Beware of Mercury, it dest over 1000 lives annually by sea and land. Attendance from 12 to 2, and from 7 to 10 o'clock.

Cash given for elean Cotton and Linen HAGS at this office.

GOURT OF APOLLO,

From the Political Atlas. ADDRESS TO A SEGAR.

Sweer Segar, I much admire thee All thy virtues I commend, O how findly I desire thee, Thee, in whom such virtues blend. Other friends, when foes assail us, Leave us oft to weep alone, But thy love does never fail us, Always dost thou hear our moan.

When with melancholy drooping.
Thou dost make me smile again;
When with loads of sorrow strooping. Thou dost come and ease my pain When alone by fireside sitting, With thee I am not alone, But my solitude forgetting, I'm with thee familiar grown,

Come sweet friend and let me kiss thee, Oft my lips have known thy sweets; Never, never 1'ff dismiss thee, Never, never I'll dismiss thee, While this heart with friendship beats. Thou art kind to all who love thee, Rich and poor can witness this, But do any feel above thee, They deprive themselves of bliss.

Come my friend let's join in union, Here myself I pledge to thee, Here myself I pledge to thee, Come, let's taste what sweet communion Can exist 'tween you and me. With thy smiles thou'lt calm each passion, might else disturb my peace, Nor will I through fear or fashion, Ere dismiss thee from thy place.

The some ignorant for may scorn thee, Who know not true worth to prize; Yet thy merit shall adorn thee, With the prudent and the wise. Come then quickly let me taste thee, For without thee I must mourn, Come, for since I last embrac'd thee, From all comfort I've been tern.

QUID

NEW NOVELS. &c SALE AT THIS OFFICE. OR, THE HAUNT OF THE BANDITTI, A Tale in 2 vols, By Regini Maria Roche. ALSO CAPT: NATHANIEL FANNING, AN AMERICAN NAVY OFFICER, Who served during the American Revolution under the command of COMMODORE JOHN PAUL JONES, ESQ THE FATAL REVENCE, THE FAMILY OF MONTORIO. A Romance, By Dennis Jusper Murphy. ALSO THE WILD IRISH GIRL, Ly Miss Owenson THE LAY OF AN IRISH HARP:

METPICAL FRAGMENTS,

By Miss Prvenson.

THE HALIAN,

By Mrs. Radel ff.

AND

TO BE SOLD at the Book-stores of E. Duyckinek 110 Pearl-street, Messrs. T & J Swords Pearl street at 178 William street, and at the office of the Weekly Museum 3 Peck slip, the following Approved Publication—THE MENTAL FLOWER GARDEN; Or, An Instructive and Entertaining Companion for THE PAIR SEX In Two Parts.

Containing—1. A variety of entertaining and moral Dialogues, partly original, calculated for Misses from 8 to 12 years. A collection of useful rules relative to genteel behaviour, and a polite address. Poetic Pieces, Devotional Poems, Writing Pieces, &c. 2. Miscelianeous Essays, worthy the perusal of women, at any period of life. To which are added, in teresting sket hes of Female Biography.

Ornamented with appropriate Copper plates. TO BE SOLD at the Book-stores of E. Duyckinck

Ornamented with appropriate Copper plates. Author of " Select Biography." The " Columbian Monitor," Sc.

Toy mooth the manners, to improve the heart, These flowers were cull'd from Nature and from Art With candour view the humble gardener's care, Whose work may prove a blessing to the Fair.

Estract of a letter, which the Author received from one of the first literary characters in America

Accept my thanks for the valuable publication which you sent to me. I shall, with great pleasure, endeavour to bring your 'Mental Flower Garden,' into notice—it is calculated to do good. If my influence were as extensive as my wishes to promote its circu-lation and usefulness it should be adopted in ALL the Female Academies and Female Schools in the United BE NJAMIN RUSH, M. D.

Sentiments of some respectable Female Teachers in the City of New- York.

Having carefully examined the Mental Flowe Garden, our opinion is, that it is a very pleasing volume, and well calculated for the use of Female Schools. A work so valuable canna: fail of being acceptable to all those parents and teachers who are deus of cultivating the mind and im roving the neart of the rising generation, Kezia Mw den, - Curoline S. Thomas Eliza Ledyard. - S Brooks.

LESSONS ON THE PLAN FORTE. FREDERICK WM DANNENBERG proposes

give lessons on the Piano forte, at his residence No 60 Maiden Lane, on the following plan, viz.

1 To enable him to pay the utmost attention to the progress of his pupils, he will engage with only Twenty four Scholars

2 Eight Scholars to form a Class and to be taught

3. Each class to receive their Lessons twice a week from 10 A M. to 2 o'clock P. M

4. Each Class to consist of Scholars of equal capacity so as to render the instructions in their progress equally beneficial to all.

5 As soon as Eight Scholars have offered, the Tuition to commence

6 Terms $12 50 per quarter for each scholar Mr Dannenberg pledges himself that his pupits shall have the strictest attention paid to their accomplishment in this branch of polite education.

June 11th 1808 1008-tf

> JEWELRY, At No. 200 Broadway.

EDWARD ROCKWELL informs his friends and customers, that he has removed from the Park to No 200 Broadway, where he solicits a continuance of their custom, and flatters himself that his goods, and his attention to his business will fully meet with their approbation

He has constantly for sale a large assortment of the newest and most fushionable gold earrings, breast the newest and most fashionable gold earrings, breast pins, lockets, finger rings, miniature settings, pearl, plain and enameld, and of every fashion, hair worked necklaces, and gold do b acelets, clasps, chains, watch chains, seals and keys, &c. He has also silver tea sets, table and tea spoons, sugar tongs, plain and ornamental tortoise shell combs, and a variety of articles appropriate to his line of business, which are too namerous to mention: he will sell article low as if ces and will arrant the gold and silver work which er ces and will a arrant the gold and silver work which are of his own manufactory, to be equal to any

A HANDSOME ASSORTMENT OF TORTUISE SHELL COMBS

N SMITH-CHYMICAL PERFUMER

At the Sign of the Golden Rose, NO 114 BROADWAY

Just received a handsome assortment of Ladie amented Combs of the newest fashion—also La mented Combs of the newest fashionplain Tortoise Shell Combs of all kinds

Smith's purified Chymical of metic Wash Ball far superior any other for softening beautifi and preserving the skin from c ping, with an agreeable perfe 4 and 8s edch Gentlemens Moroeca Pour for travelling, that holds all shaving apparatus complete i

Odours of Roaes for smell COMBS bottles

Smith's improved Chymical Milk of Rosessou known for clearing the skin from scurf, pimples a ness or sunburns, and is very fine for gentlementer shaving with printed directions, 3s 4s 8s and bottle, or 3 dollars per duart.

Smith's Pomade de Grasse for thickening hair and keeping it from coming out or turning 3 4s and 8s per pot "Smith's Tooth Paste warrants" Violet double scented Rose 2s 6d.

Smith's Segmenter House Paste for washing.

SHEL

Smith's Saroynette Royal Paste for washing skin, making it smooth delicate and fair 4 and 81

oot, do paste Smith's Cymical Dentrifice Tooth Powder for Smith's Cymical Dentrince Tooth Powder for teeth and gums, warranted—2 and 4s per box Smith's Vegetable Rouge for giving a natural cour to the complexion, likewise his Vegetable Pearl Cosmetic, for immediately whitening the significant of the king of the significance of the significanc powder for the skin 8s per lb Smith's Circassia or Antique Oil for curling, gl sing and thickening the hair, and preventing it for urning grev 4s per bottle

Highly improved sweet-scented hard and soft matums is per pot or roll. Doled do 2s

Smith's Balsamic Lip Sa've of Roses, for givin most beautiful coral red to the lips 2 and 4s per Smith's Lotion for the teeth warranted

His purfied Alpine Shaving Cake, made on a mical principles to help the operation of shaving and 19 6d

Smith's celabrated Corn Plaister 3s per box Ladies and Gentlemen's Pocket Books Ladies silk Braces. Elastic worsted and Con Garters

Garters
Sa t of Lemons for taking out iron mold

"The best warranted Concave Razors, Elai is of A.
Razor Strops, Shaving Boxes, Dreasing Cases, Pould of knives, Scissars, Totoise-shell, Ivory and Hor so excembs, Superfine white starch, Smelling bottles at e. grat Laries and Gentiemen will not only have a say but have their goods fresh and free from adulte tion, which is not the case with imported Perfinm

Great silowance to those who buy to se.l ap

SCHOOL.

THE subscriber returns his thanks to his emp ers for their encouragements to him in the line of business, and informs them and the public in gene that he has engaged the place he now occupies, no Greenwich street, near Mr Lispenard's brewery, will continue to teach there the ensuing year: wh place, for situation, convenience, and salubrious of air, none exceeds it. The subscriber will the of air, none exceeds it. The subscriber will the fe of May next, open a morning School for the purpor teaching punctuation, Composition, and the ar Penmanship upon the new Systemised plan; at I teaching of which art he proffers that none can exceed him. And from his unremitted assiduity teaching and reciprocally discharging his duty teaching and reciprocally discharged to he for a reasonable share of public patronage, and assign that no exertions will be wanting on his part to instinct the minds of his pupils, knowledge, which makes a tendency to fit them for tuture needliness.

N. B. The subscriber writes deed, mortage wills, indentures, leases, bonds, notes, &c. or reconsidered.

1002onable terms april 30

NO

he house arents i gether iend's | compli came e e atten ardian. He wa ng the &

int; an ng Agne ith civi citude a erself in en and raised mast. consist > pir fort her pro

e well y futa avagan nish, or These enerositud it wa tunity heart

is hand expec ould co

ust rec ween

ould g ur stat a to y e thou at to i tude I ho has ufriend

as edu

ng kin Cleme e ansv adaess nity, a ind, a t inte ed im

F, 110 5 was e natur ming

boicest tr that